

Call for paper “Macroeconometric Workshop”

3 December, 2021 at German Institute for Economic Research (DIW Berlin), Germany

We are pleased to announce that on December 3, 2021 DIW Berlin will host the “Macroeconometric Workshop”. The workshop covers presentations of both methodological and applied contributions on the frontier of research in quantitative macroeconomics, with a focus on empirical research. The event is jointly organized by the School of Business & Economics of Freie Universität Berlin and Humboldt Universität Berlin, and the Departments of Macroeconomics of DIW Berlin. We are happy to announce the ### Keynote lecture by Morten Ravn.

For paper submissions, please send a full paper to macroeconometrics@diw.de no later than October 1, 2021. Extended abstracts will not be considered. Notification of acceptance/rejection can be expected by October 15, 2021.

We encourage especially young researchers to submit their paper.

The workshop will be held in the premises of the DIW Berlin, Mohrenstrasse 58, 10117 Berlin, Germany. The workshop starts at 9:00 and ends at 17:00. The workshop is open to both presenters and external participants. It will be followed by a dinner open to both presenters and participants. However, please bear in mind that only a limited number of places is available for external participants. Attendance is free, but we request to register by email no later than November 5, 2021. Traveling and accommodation costs are not covered. All participants are expected to attend the full workshop.

We hope to see you soon in Berlin.

Kind regards,
The organizers

Michael Burda (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin)
Geraldine Dany-Knedlik (DIW Berlin)
Alexander Kriwoluzky (Freie Universität Berlin and DIW Berlin)
Helmut Lütkepohl (Freie Universität Berlin and DIW Berlin)
Simone Maxand (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin)
Dieter Nautz (Freie Universität Berlin)

September 10, 2021